Section I. General Information

Background

Minnesota State Colleges and Universities is the fifth-largest system of higher education in the United States. It is comprised of 31 two-year and four-year state colleges and universities with 54 campuses located in 47 Minnesota communities. The System serves approximately 430,000 students each year. The Minnesota State Colleges and Universities is an independent state entity that is governed by a 15 member Board of Trustees. The law creating the system was passed by the Minnesota Legislature in 1991 and went into effect July 1, 1995. The law merged the state's community colleges, technical colleges and state universities into one system, other than the University of Minnesota campuses. For more information about Minnesota State Colleges and Universities, please view its website at www.minnstate.edu.

Minnesota State University, Mankato, a comprehensive university in the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) system, is located on a 303 acre campus in Mankato, Minnesota, a community of approximately 53,000 situated in the Minnesota River Valley of south central Minnesota. The University offers a full range of undergraduate and a broad selection of graduate programs, and as such, has statewide responsibilities for the articulation of and providing access to professional programs not available at other colleges and regional universities. The University also has a major obligation to provide leadership in applied research important to the economy and quality of life in the state.

Founded in 1868, Minnesota State University, Mankato, has evolved from its beginnings as a normal school, to become in 1921 Mankato State Teachers College when it was authorized to offer a four-year curriculum. Because of its increasing commitment to providing more than teacher preparation, the name was changed to Mankato State College in 1957. The institution continued to grow in size and its reputation for academic excellence led to university status in 1975. Mankato State University became Minnesota State University, Mankato, in September 1998, giving further prominence to its growth to an institution recognized nationally.

The University is under the control and management of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) Board of Trustees, an agency of the State of Minnesota.

More than 15,000 students, including more than 600 international students from approximately 75 countries, attend Minnesota State University, Mankato. 1,500 faculty and staff, including more than 700 teaching faculty, provide for those student customers.

Project Background Information and Objectives:

The central goal the Hazardous Materials Instructor Training (HIMT) project is to facilitate the development and delivery of training for hazmat instructors. We understand that properly developed and delivered training programs are essential for ensuring hazmat employees have the necessary skill sets to promote compliance and safety practices in transporting hazardous materials. The failure to train employees is an all too common violation cited by PHMSA enforcement staff. Competent and effective trainers can contribute to ensuring that employees are appropriately trained. Project objectives include ensuring that hazmat trainers are equipped to accomplish the following: a) that hazmat employees receive initial and continuing training on the risks involved in transporting hazardous materials; b) the relevant training requirements in the HMR are met (e.g. general awareness, function specific, safety and security training); and c) hazmat employees will be equipped to ensure their safety and the safety of others.

The training is focused on the requirements of the Hazardous Materials Regulations (HMR), 49 CFR, Parts 100-180, and additionally in building effective instructor skills, necessary to customize course content. The training design employed recognizes that a certain level of customization for each identified locality is necessary to fully address the functions they perform. By using innovative training delivery techniques that enhance the effectiveness of the training, participants and trainers will gain the ability to develop and customize their training based on the competency needs of the hazmat employees. This approach is designed to develop a measurable skillset for hazmat employees designed to demonstrate how compliance reduces risk. Training courses are most effective in focusing on competencies that are needed when the employees clearly understand their roles and responsibilities and how to perform pre-transportation functions that apply to their job responsibilities in a routine, safe and compliant manner. Hazmat employees are more likely to compliantly carry out their pre-transportation functions if they understand and respect how compliance results in enhancing safety, environmental impact, public reaction and the viability of their business. We understand that human error and a lack of focus on compliance are key contributors to incidents. Consequently, it is important that employees understand and respect the need to be sufficiently knowledgeable to transport hazardous materials in a safe and regulatory compliant manner. Appropriately trained employees also enhance a company’s safety culture. Effective training of hazmat employees will reduce the likelihood of safety issues and accidents and, as a result, in the safe transportation of hazardous materials.

As an educational institution committed to the professional development for a broad range of professionals, we feel it is critically important to identify and recommend a professional development pathway for instructors working in the hazardous materials industry at multiple levels. The type of strategic partnership envisioned will support the professional development direction for industry partners and leverage the experience of the training for further professional development growth and skillset attainment.

Our goal in this effort is to create an academic partnership to bridge the technical training needs of the hazardous materials workforce to their long-term career development goals and objectives. Our office has a particular interest in developing these pathways and we have been successful in establishing partnerships between industries in developing cadres of technically trained professionals. As an administrative unit within Minnesota State University, Mankato, our mission is to collaborate with University colleges and departments to extend the reach of Minnesota State University, Mankato to nontraditional students, business organizations and communities locally, regionally and globally. Our activities advance the University’s mission of excellence in academic programming offered throughout the region, state and world. Moving the university resources beyond the main campus in Mankato, makes the University accessible to a much greater audience. Our team specializes in building greater diversity in serving adult learners, nontraditional students and industry engagement. The HMIT project is a mission consistent commitment to building professional learning engagements for multiple professions within the academic and strategic mission of Minnesota State University, Mankato.

Minnesota State University, Mankato is a nonprofit educational organization that will demonstrate: 1) expertise in developing an instructor training curriculum for selected hazmat content experts; 2) conduct an instructor training program for hazmat train the trainer participants nationally; and 3) demonstrate the ability to recruit participants and conduct training programs for a target population of hazmat employees. The HMIT program will achieve the following objectives:

Objective 1: Develop all components of HMIT train-the-trainer program.
Objective 2: Recruit instructors to participate in the HMIT train-the-trainer program.
Objective 3: Implement the HMIT train-the-trainer program.
Objective 4: Assist trainers in finding hazmat training opportunities in public and private sector organizations.
Objective 5: Evaluate and recommend a professional development pathway for instructors participating in the HMIT program.

Organizational Conflicts of Interest

The responder warrants that, to the best of its knowledge and belief, and except as otherwise disclosed, there are no relevant facts or circumstances that could give rise to organizational conflicts of interest. An organizational conflict of interest exists when, because of existing or planned activities or because of relationships with other persons, a vendor is unable or potentially unable to render impartial assistance or advice, or the vendor’s objectivity in performing the contract work is or might be otherwise impaired, or the vendor has an unfair competitive advantage. The responder agrees that, if after award, an organizational conflict of interest is discovered, an immediate and full disclosure in writing must be made to the respective school’s chief financial officer or the System Office’s Business Manager that must include a description of the action which the vendor has taken or proposes to take to avoid or mitigate such conflicts. If an organizational conflict of interest is determined to exist, the school or System Office may, at its discretion, cancel the contract. In the event the responder was aware of an organizational conflict of interest prior to the award of the contract and did not disclose the conflict to the contracting officer, the school or System Office may terminate the contract for default. The provisions of this clause must be included in all subcontracts for work to be performed similar to the service provided by the prime contractor, and the terms “contract,” “contractor,” and “contracting officer” modified appropriately to preserve MnSCU’s rights.

Physical and Data Security

The vendor is required to recognize that on the performance of the contract the vendor will become a holder of and have access to private data on individuals and nonpublic data as defined in the Minnesota Government Data Practices Act, Minnesota Statutes Chapter 13; and other applicable laws.

The vendor agrees that it, its officers, employees and agents will be bound by the above confidentiality laws and that it will establish procedures for safeguarding the information.

The vendor agrees to notify its officers, employees and agents of the requirements of confidentiality and of the possible penalties imposed by violation of these laws. The vendor agrees that neither it, nor its officers, employees or agents will disclose or make public any information received by the vendor on behalf of MnSCU and Minnesota State University, Mankato.

The vendor shall recognize MnSCU’s sole and exclusive right to control the use of this information.
