Attention Honors Students!

Are you interested in presenting your academic research to a group of interested peers at the 2012 Minnesota Collegiate Honors Symposium?

What is the Minnesota Collegiate Honors Symposium?
The Symposium is a lively and enriching opportunity for honors students to share their academic research with an audience of interested peers.

Participating students give 25-minute presentations (including question and answer time). Presentations should include a PowerPoint.

When is the Minnesota Collegiate Honors Symposium?
Saturday, March 24, 2012
Northwestern College
St. Paul, Minnesota

Please contact your Honors Program Director by _________________________ for more information about participating in the symposium.

What students say about the Minnesota Collegiate Honors Symposium

“I found it to be both enjoyable and insightful to mingle with students from other colleges in an academic environment. This Symposium also provided a unique experience to engage with our peers in their scholarly interests.”

“The Symposium is a wonderful chance to deal with the nervousness in and technicalities of making a professional presentation by giving students the opportunity to present their recent work in a scholarly yet not intimidating environment.”

“The Honors Symposium was an exciting and challenging experience for me as I had the opportunity to take my research one step further from a paper and present it before my peers for their discussion and critique. I greatly appreciated the dialogue that resulted, leading to some intriguing insights for later exploration in this topic. In addition, I really enjoyed the occasion to listen to the research and discoveries of other students, ultimately letting me walk away with a greater breadth and depth of knowledge about subjects I otherwise wouldn’t have learned about. I am already looking forward to the Symposium next year!”