

The Minnesota State University Mankato Philosophy Department

Presents

MSU Annual Business Ethics
Lecture

Jeremy Iggers

Twin Cities Media Alliance

“The Increasing Irrelevance of Journalism Ethics”

Thursday
April 17, 2008

7:30 PM

Wiecking Auditorium
MSU Mankato

Jeremy Iggers is Director of the Twin Cities Media Alliance. He has a PhD in philosophy from the University of Minnesota. He was a staff writer for the Minneapolis Star Tribune for 22 years, where he also wrote restaurant reviews and an ethics column. He is author of the book Good News, Bad News: Journalism Ethics and the Public Interest.

This event is free and open to all.

This lecture is co-sponsored by The College of Business and the Department of Mass Communication.