

Projected Population Age 19 and Under, 2030

The population age 19 and under is projected to stay highest in the Twin Cities suburbs. Some rural counties, however, are also projected to have a comparatively higher percentage of young people, most likely due to the presence of a college or university or a large minority population.

Data source: Minnesota State Demographic Center
 © 2005 Center for Rural Policy and Development