

Population Age 65 and Over, 2004

The shift of younger people to urban and suburban counties has been an issue for rural areas for years. The higher percentage of seniors remaining in rural counties has many implications, such as a demand for increased levels of service to those living on low and fixed incomes.

Data source: U.S. Census, 2005
© 2005 Center for Rural Policy and Development