URBAN AND REGIONAL STUDIES MA

URBAN PLANNING MA

URBAN AND REGIONAL STUDIES/PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION (JOINT) MA

*College of Social and Behavioral Sciences
Urban and Regional Studies Institute
106 Morris Hall • 507-389-1714*

Graduate Coordinator: Perry Wood, Ph.D.

William Bernhagen, Ph.D., Janet Cherrington, Ph.D., David Laverny-Rafter, Ph.D., Miriam Porter, D.P.A., H. Roger Smith, Ph.D.

The Urban and Regional Studies Institute offers multi-disciplinary professional degree programs oriented toward examining and understanding the broad range of problems and opportunities associated with the nation's urban and regional areas. Since its beginning in 1966, the Institute has been training students who have chosen to become involved in the processes of solving problems in a variety of urban environments. As one of the first such graduate multidisciplinary urban studies degree program in the nation, the Institute has developed a generalist, problem solving philosophy for professionals in local government management and planning careers.

Students are offered flexibility in establishing their individual program. In addition to formal coursework, students are encouraged to undertake independent study, become involved in community service projects, participate in field studies and accept internships in local agencies. For complete details concerning the academic program, the graduate student should contact the Urban and Regional Studies Institute.

The Institute has received the Stephen B. Sweeney Award in from the International City/County Management Association as the program that had made the most significant contribution to the training of men and women for local government leadership careers. There are three master's degree programs of study available through the Institute, including the Master of Arts in Urban and Regional Studies, Master of Arts with a Joint Major in Urban and Regional Studies/Public Administration, and Master of Arts in Urban Planning.

The fields of urban management and planning are rapidly expanding and require a professional education; applicants who hold the master's degree receive a preference in hiring. The U.S. Department of Commerce has projected a continual increase in opportunities and higher salaries in the coming decade. On the job, managers and planners enjoy a great deal of professional mobility. They frequently provide leadership in complex assignments; they are in constant contact with the general public and with co-workers. They gain satisfaction in solving important problems.

Admission. In addition to meeting the general admission requirements of College of Graduate Studies, admission to the program as a degree-seeking student requires: 1) Undergraduate course in research methods/statistics, or equivalent; 2) Undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0/4.0 in last two years of coursework; 3) Two recommendations assessing potential for successful graduate study; 4) Personal statement describing applicant's interests and experience. Admission to the program on a provisional basis may be approved for applicants with a GPA of at least 2.6 in the last two years of coursework and who demonstrate special circumstances and potential. Absence of specific undergraduate coursework in urban studies or statistics will result in the assigning of deficiency coursework which must be completed before graduation.

Financial Assistance. Applicants seek university sources of financial assistance, should apply to the Financial Aids Office. See Sources of Financial Assistance at the front of the Bulletin. Special awards are also available to qualified Institute students for research and teaching assistantships, fellowships, and cooperative work/graduate study positions. These awards are administered by the Institute based upon criteria established by alumni donors, local/state/federal agency grants and faculty and professional association gifts. Although applications to the Institute for financial assistance will be accepted anytime, most complete consideration will be afforded to those complete applications received before April 1 for consideration of awards for the following academic year. Financial assistance awards are normally made for one academic year. Regularly-enrolled students in good standing may apply for professional internship appointments during the second year of graduate study.

URBAN & REGIONAL STUDIES MA

(Thesis Plan - 33 cr)

(Alternate Paper Plan - 36 cr)

The Master of Arts is a multidisciplinary degree program oriented toward examining and understanding the broad range of problems and opportunities associated with the nation's urban and regional areas. Students in the MA degree program may prepare themselves for professional careers in local government, or use the MA degree as preparation for Ph.D. study. The program requirements are designed to provide flexibility while ensuring a multidisciplinary, problem-solving perspective.

URBAN AND REGIONAL STUDIES/ PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION (JOINT PROGRAM) MA

(Alternate Plan Paper Option Only - 45 cr)

This is a professional program training students to provide staff leadership in local governments (cities and counties). Local government managers are distinctive in that they have a close working association on a daily basis with both their elected superiors and the residents of the communities they serve. Even in small communities, local government managers must demonstrate a range of capabilities and master a diversity of relationships found only among the few most highly placed administrators at other levels of government. This program provides a broad overview of the management and policy issues which face local government.

WOMEN'S STUDIES MS

College of Social & Behavioral Sciences

Women's Studies Department

109 Morris Hall • 507-389-2077

Chairperson: Carol Perkins, Ph.D.

Graduate Coordinator: Maria Bevacqua, Ph.D.

The Master of Science in Women's Studies is an interdisciplinary program which can be developed with each student's specific interests in mind. Based in the humanities and social sciences, it combines individual coursework, internships, cross-disciplinary seminars, and individual and cooperative research projects in a comprehensive program which is expressly feminist and oriented toward training activists. This program attracts students from the region, throughout the United States and from abroad. Women's Studies at Minnesota State University, Mankato is actively committed to anti-sexist, anti-classist, anti-racist and anti-heterosexist work. Students may combine interests in areas such as counseling, public policy, community action and teaching with feminist theory, methodology and knowledge. Departmental faculty areas of interest include feminist theory, lesbian studies, feminist pedagogy, research methodologies, feminist curricular change efforts, issues of class and classism, women in poverty, social policy, gender stratification, violence against women, women and work, women and aging, politics of health and film studies.

A graduate degree in Women's Studies is beneficial to any work experience in which women are affected--in
