What Classes Can't PSEO Students Register For?

VIDEO

Big ideas. Real-world thinking.

While it's important that PSEO students understand what classes they can register for, it's equally as important that they understand what classes they are not eligible to register for.

This guide will cover what classes PSEO students can't register for and how to look for these classes on e-services. Students can watch this video or review the information in this document to learn more.

What Classes Can't PSEO Students Register For?

Video Time: 0:20 – 0:42

1. PSEO students can register for any class a tuition-paying student can register for, with a few exceptions. These exceptions include:

- Upper division 300-400 level courses (unless permission is granted from the department).
- Classes that exceed $100 in additional fees.
- Developmental education courses.

PSEO students CANNOT register for classes reserved for 100% online program students

What Does the Restriction: 100% Online Program Mean?

Video Time: 1:44 – 2:21

PSEO students may want to register for a class that has the following restriction: “reserved for students in the 100% online program only.” Students that qualify to take these classes are tuition-paying students that applied to the university under that specific cohort.

PSEO students do not qualify to take classes with this specific restriction. However, this doesn't mean that PSEO students can't take online classes. PSEO students can still take online classes, they just need to be aware of this restriction that may be found under the notes section for certain classes.

Sample course PSEO students can register for:
